Northern status could ease board's problem

Haliburton County Council and the Haliburton County Board of Education will be seeking greater financial assistance from the provincial government to offset the high percentage of funding required from local taxpayers for education costs.

The decision to approach the province for a change in the funding formula was made at a meeting on Wednesday, May 22, between representatives of the board, County Warden Dalton MacDonald and county councillors Bob Vick, Bob McCausland and Bill Howe.

The meeting followed a resolution passed by county council on May 15 that described the 19.4% increase in the education levy as "Unacceptable, unreasonable and an undue burden on the taxpayers of Haliburton County."

The resolution requested the board reconsider the 1985 budget that included the levy increase.

However, the strong language of the resolution was forgotten when members of council and the board trustees met and reviewed the 1985 budget.

Following an explanation of the budget and the reduction in provincial grants the council members agreed to support an effort by the board to seek greater provincial assistance.

One possible avenue would be to request that Haliburton County be considered eligible under the same formula that is applied to school boards in northern Ontario.

Wounded man discovered on OPP front lawn

A man who claimed to have accidentally shot himself in the leg with a shot gun was discovered early Sunday morning parked on the front lawn on the Minden OPP detachment office.

The discovery of the man, 22 year old Robert Senkiw, was made by Constables Pearson and Rogers who were returning to the detachment headquarters after routine patrol. As they pulled into the office, they noticed a vehicle parked on the front lawn. The fourway flashers on the vehicle were operating.

Upon approaching the car, they discovered the man inside with a serious wound to his upper left leg. The man was taken to Minden hospital and later transferred to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay for treatment of the wound.

According to the police report, the man claimed to have shot himself accidentally several hours prior to being discovered at the Minden office. The shooting took place in Somerville Township. Senkiw claimed to have been unable to locate a hospital and so had pulled into the OPP office to Six members of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Track team will be competing in the Ontario Track and Field Championships to be held at Etobicoke Centennial Stadium on June 7 and 8.

The athletes qualified for the championship at the Eastern Regional track meet on Friday in Brockville, competing against the top four in each event from the Ottawa Valley, Eastern and Central Ontario.

Qualifying for the Ontario finals this weekend were: Lesley Tashlin in the Junior Girls 80 metre hurdles (2nd) and Open Girls 400 metre hurdles (3rd); Brad Archer in the Midget Boys Shotput (3rd) and Discus (4th); Ron Perrin in the Midget Boys Javelin (3rd); and the Junior Girls 400 metre relay team (3rd) of Lori-Anne Duguay, Jodie McKnight, Lindsay Tashlin and Lesley Tashlin.

Other Mindens

Minden, Nebraska, U.S.A.

by Hilde Lange

Did anyone in Minden, Ontario ever hear of the MANDAN Project? Actually, most residents of Minden, Nebraska probably never paid much attention to it even though the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) has spent approximately $34.5 million on the project through January, 1985.

The MANDAN Project was first proposed by NPPD, Manitoba Hydro and other utilities in 1975. It was to have been a 600-mile, 500,000-volt transmission line that would link hydro generation resources in Manitoba, Canada with coal and nuclear resources in the United States. The seasonal diversity exchange would have provided for electricity to flow south during the summer to summer-peaking utilities, such as NPPD, and then be returned north during the winter to winter-peaking utilities, such as Manitoba Hydro.

Utilities which have participated in negotiations since inception of the project have included Otter Tail Power Co. of Fergus Falls, Minn.; Minnkota Power Cooperative of Grand Forks, N.D.; Iowa Public Service Co.; Omaha Public Power District; Lincoln Electric System; the Municipal Energy Agency of Nebraska; Kansas Power and Light; and Kansas City Power and Light. A number of other utilities considered the project but did not enter into serious negotiations with NPPD.

Early cost estimates for the project with a 1986 in-service date were about $500 million. The latest cost estimate with a 1993 in-service date, is $878 million. The higher cost is due in large part to inflation, with some increases due to design improvements and refined engineering data.

Through January, 1985, Nebraska Public Power District had spent approximately $34.5 million on the project, including financing costs and overhead. Other activities involving expenditures included engineering, permits and licensing, environmental studies and planning, legislative, legal and public information activities as well as management coordination of the project.

Now the NPPD board of directors, on the recommendation of NPPD management, voted to immediately terminate all work on the proposed MANDAN Project transmission line. The general manager cited the District's inability to secure the necessary cost sharing arrangements with participating utilities in the United States and a stalemate in negotiations with Manitoba Hydro Electric board in Canada over the pricing of electric energy associated with the exchange of seasonal diversity capacity.

The management recommendation and subsequent board action came despite NPPD's continuing belief in the benefits of seasonal energy exchange between electric utilities with opposite peak demand periods.

The various utilities that dropped out of participation did so for a number of reasons including reduced load growth and lower load forecasts, energy conservation, escalating project costs, differing in-service date requirements and financial considerations.

The primary reason the in-service date was moved back several times is the reduced load growth experienced by NPPD and other utilities during recent years. When the project was proposed 10 years ago, the peak load was growing by six to seven percent a year. In recent years, this growth has slowed significantly, and NPPD's peak load is predicted to grow at three to four percent into the first half of the 1990's.

Nebraska Public Power District management will now begin a study of possible means of meeting the District's future power and energy needs. These could include participating with another utility in building a generating station, construction of a new NPPD coal-fired station or the building of an oil or gas-fired peaking turbine.

Driver finds Thrill of a Lifetime at Minden rally

Paul Mitchell was probably expecting a quiet day in the scenic Highlands when he awoke Saturday morning. Little did he suspect that by the end of the day he would be involved in a hair-raising cross-country race in a high performance sports car driven by one of the top rally drivers in Canada.

The quiet sojourn in the country was the idea of Paul's wife, Shari, who works for the marketing department of Olivetti Canada. She told Paul she would be spending the weekend in the Minden area on company business and that he was invited along.

Paul thought it unusual that company business would take her to rural Ontario but agreed to accompany her. After all, as Paul explained later, it was an expense paid trip.

The young couple travelled from their home in Scarborough to Glenroy Lodge near Hall's Lake where they spent Friday night. In the morning, Paul noticed a large crowd had gathered in the courtyard including a television crew that was filming a sleek white Nissan rally car that was being offloaded from a truck.

Paul and Shari decided to watch the proceedings and as they stood near the car, a man approached them, introduced himself as Randy Black, and said that he would be driving in the Black Bear Rally later that day with Paul as his co-driver.

Needless to say the news came as a complete surprise to Paul. His reaction was captured by the television crew who told Paul they were shooting a segment of the CTV series, "Thrill of A Lifetime," and that Paul would be appearing on the program.

When the car was ready, Paul and Randy drove to Minden Arena to prepare for the rally.

While the TV crew was mounting a camera in the back seat of the car, Shari explained that she was responsible for the surprise.

She said that unknown to Paul, she had written the producers of Thrill of A Lifetime asking them to consider her husband for the show. She said that Paul was an avid racing fan who frequently travelled to NASCAR races in the United States. "I asked them for anything to do with racing," she said, adding, "I never thought it would happen, but a few weeks later they phoned to tell me that Paul would appear on the show. I just about died when I heard."

Shari decided to surprise Paul with the news and invented the story about the business trip to cover up the real reason for coming to Minden. Graham Seaton, director of the series, said that when the producers received Shari's letter, they contacted Nissan Canada who agreed to enter a car in the Black Bear Rally with Paul as co-driver.

Graham said the rally marked the reunion of the team that won the Canadian Rally Championship in 1983 but emphasised it did not mark the re-emergence of the team in rally driving. Graham added that although Paul had appeared to be overwhelmed when told he would be competing in the rally, he had calmed down and was taking it all in his stride.

As the TV technicians continued their work installing the film camera and tape recorder in the car, Randy Black, the two time Canadian Rally Champion talked about the car that he had driven in twenty rallies. He agreed with the comment made by one of the team members that the car was built for racing but was strong as a tank to withstand the harsh pounding it had to undergo.

He said the car, a Nissan 200SX, was one of two hundred similar high performance vehicles built especially for racing in 1982 and shipped to rally teams around the world.

Powered by a 2.4 litre, 16 valve, twin cam engine that could produce 265 horsepower, the car was capable of speeds up to 140 m.p.h. "That is because of the relatively low gearing. With different gearing, the car could reach 200 m.p.h." he said, adding that during the special stages of the rally he would be able to travel at speeds of up to 115 m.p.h.

He said it would be hard to place a value on the car, but estimated it was worth in excess of $75,000.

After the team mechanics and television technicians had completed their work, Randy drove the car into the arena where it was inspected by the rally club scrutineers.

Meanwhile Paul was given a temporary competitor's licence and a crash course (no pun intended,) in the art of navigating. He explained that he would be responsible for relaying the instructions on the route to Randy, keeping track of the elapsed time and would be monitoring the large number of gauges that resembled the instrument panel in a commercial jet.

At 2 p.m. sharp, Randy and Paul set out on the first leg of the rally driving north on the Bobcaygeon Road.

Over six hours later after completing the seven high speed special stages and a relatively leisurely drive along Highway 35, the team arrived at the finish line at Glenroy Lodge.

When Paul got out of the car the television camera was rolling again as Graham Seaton asked him about the ride. "I didn't think we would be going that fast. It is a lot different from watching it at home on TV. It was great!" he said, adding that after having a cold drink, he would like to try his hand at driving.

In spite of Paul's inexperience, or perhaps more accurately because of Randy's skill and experience, the team placed first in the event. Graham Seaton said later that the episode will probably be shown on television in November or December.

Sharing concern

In a world that often seems cold and uncaring, it is indeed refreshing to see individuals and groups reaching out to help those less fortunate. Several examples of that attitude of brotherly concern have come to light during the past week.

The annual Haliburton Highlands Walk for Water provides an excellent opportunity for county residents to reach out to those in third world nations in a very personal way to help improve living conditions elsewhere. The organizers, walkers and sponsors are to be congratulated for their dedication to the ideal of helping their fellow man.

Similarly, closer to home, we have witnessed in the past five days a generous outpouring of concern for the victims of the tornado in the Barrie-Orangeville area. The relief agencies are hard pressed to handle the massive inventory of goods which have been flowing into the depots. The response to this tragedy provides another example of the true spirit of brotherly love.

The nightly news portrays a world of despair and hatred. While these elements are indeed part of our lot in the world, they certainly are not as prevalent as the media makes them appear to be. The examples provided this past week are but two which help to show the true nature of the world in which we live.

The first federal budget

-by Bill Scott, MP-

The first budget of the new government emphasises our fundamental belief in Canadians - in entrepreneurs, small business owners and farmers - and in their ability to face and meet the challenges of economic renewal.

In our consultations, Canadians told us that they are able and willing to generate new business activity and employment. But, they need access to financial resources, freedom from unnecessary government intervention and a government working as a catalyst, not a hindrance.

The May 23 budget encourages hard-working and innovative Canadians through measures which will, as my colleague the Minister of Finance said, "reward success". Our proposals open the door to entrepreneurship through risk-taking. They help small business and farmers, encourage new investment and give individual Canadians more opportunity to participate, innovate and succeed.

One specific measure is the proposal for a lifetime capital gains exemption of half a million dollars for individuals. This exemption provides a much greater reward to - and incentive for - Canadians to invest in new and growing small businesses. It tells entrepreneurs that when they put their ideas, their time, effort and financial resources on the line, they will be able to reap the rewards.

Another measure encourages investments by Registered Retirement Savings Plans (RRSPs) in equity capital of private small and medium-sized businesses with which they deal at arm's length. It is central to our government's philosophy and central to the budget's plan for action that Canadians be allowed to decide where to put their money, how to invest to create wealth, economic growth and jobs.

Other small business measures in the budget include assistance, in the form of tax credits, to individuals investing in labour-sponsored venture capital funds. The small business bond program will be extended until 1987. New and growing research and development companies will receive a direct refund of the full tax credit they earn on their first $2 million of Research and Development. As well, small business will be exempted from the 5 per cent one-year corporate surtax. This measure recognizes the importance of strengthening small business and avoiding any brake on its development.

Our government is committed to ending intrusion into the affairs of business by government. We are making the tax system fairer and improving tax administration.

As well, we will lighten the burden of rising payroll taxes by placing a freeze on unemployment insurance premiums at the current level. And we will be establishing a private sector task force to review the unemployment insurance pro-

Spectacular blooms twist and rise their way open. Tiny aeronauts zing back and forth like sci-fi spaceships, bedazzled in blues, maroon and emerald green. Giant ships dive onto the scene, devouring the smaller craft. Purple loosestrife suddenly blossoms at the fringe, opening like a row of starburst fireworks. A huge denizen silently prowls beneath the surface, like a lurking submarine eyeing paddlers above. Mighty storms gentle in its midst, silently percolating to sustain the rich, cold trout streams of summer. Strange thunderpumpers pound in the background.

Wetlands are the focus of environment week, which runs June 3 - 8. For, the diverse array of marshes, swamps, fens and bogs which form part of Ontario's tapestry, are among the most productive of all habitats.

Picture the Ontario map bedecked with a fantastic array of bicycle wheels - some large, some small. Wetlands are the hubs of these wheels, their roles extending like spokes into the surrounding countryside - through field and forest, lake and city. They perform a host of roles for wildlife - and people. Marshes act as spawning areas for many of our fish species, like walleye and pike. They are main feeding areas for a vast array of wildlife beyond - 'muskie', bass, songbirds, muskrat and many others. They are main 'production centres' contributing to lakes the foodbase upon which even deep-water species like lake trout depend.

The rich mix of nutrients, water, land and 'edge habitat' - the contact between land and water - make these areas even more productive than most agricultural land. The results are areas crammed-packed with

Only human

Fortunately we are only human. Equally fortunate is the fact that some observant soul coined that phrase to protect us from the wrath of others and our own self deprecating abuse. After all, who, other than a human, would keep the container of lock de-icer in the glove compartment of the car? Conveniently right at hand when you don't need it, but tantalizingly just beyond reach when its use is crucial.

I had a secretary once, in another community, who, upon hearing that the post office was about to increase the first class rate, suggested we stock up on stamps at the existing tariff to beat the postage hike. She, like each and every one of us, was only human.

The "human-ness" of our world came to mind last Thursday morning. I stopped to watch the workmen installing the massive precast cement and steel box beams at the Ingoldsby bridge. The project has become a bit of an attraction for me. I've visited it at least once a week to gauge the progress and marvel at the engineering and effort that has gone into the construction of the new bridge. (The politics of the project is another matter altogether which I'll leave in the glove compartment with the de-icer for the moment).

While the removal of the old structure and the work involved in building the abutments on either side of the gap proved to be interesting enough, the piece de jack's world

by editor & publisher Jack Brezina resistance for this bridge building watcher came last week as two towering cranes swung the bridge sections into place. These massive pieces each weigh 45 tons, are 84 feet in length and according to county engineer Bill Obee are worth about $15,000 apiece. Eight panels were installed to make the roadbed of the bridge.

What was most impressive was the delicate manoeuvring carried out by the two crane operators at either end of these monstrous sections of steel and cement. The workmen scurried around at either end ensuring the spans were placed exactly where required. Yelling back and forth across the gap, the engineers called for the spans to be moved, "to the right an inch and a half" or "this way three-eighths of an inch".

With the guiding, pushing, nudging and cajoling of the workmen the 45 tons of concrete, the man at the crane controls would gently lift the massive block and move it the required fraction of an inch and gently place it back on the abutments. It was simply amazing to watch a machine, itself of immense proportions and complexity, move such a gargantuan piece of cement and steel in such a fine and delicate way. A credit to the operator's skill and the exacting tolerances expected by the builders of such structures.

The proof of the care with which the job was carried out came when the second panel was set in place. While it is unlikely these eight sections of the bridge will be moved by anything less than an earthquake, the builders deemed that they should be joined by a steel rod with nuts securing both ends. When the second section was finally set in place, the steel rod was inserted in the channel provided for it. Not a hitch, the two channels were perfectly aligned, and the rod slipped through without hesitation.

Then someone's humanity struck.

Before the nuts could be attached to either end of the rod a large washer was to go over the rod first. The washer in question was square, about the size of a small pocket novel and critical to ensuring the rod did the job for which it was intended. However, the hole in the washer was too small and it would not fit over the rod.

Eight 45 ton sections of the Ingoldsby bridge, each worth $15,000, fabricated in Woodstock to a fine tolerance, transported by special trucks to the site, swung into place with exactitude that a watchmaker would admire, and a simple $10 square steel washer that was just a teeny bit too small brings the whole project to a grinding halt.

Fortunately, the error was discovered at 10 a.m. and Barb Walker of Cedar Grove Lodge, next to the bridge, had just emerged with a big cauldron of coffee. While most of the crew headed off for a cup and a break, three of their mates lugged a heavy pail of square washers, the ones with a hole just a teeny bit too small, over to the construction site cutting torch to make the necessary adjustments so they'd fit over the steel rod and the installation of the bridge could continue, as it did sometime after coffee break.

I don't know the name of the person who ordered those washers that were just a bit too small, but I do know who he is, and, for that matter, so do you. He's only human.

NDP supports Liberals

-by John Eakins, MPP-

The New Democratic Party's decision to support Liberal Leader David Peterson's right to form a government reflects a clear reality: After 42 years, voters have indicated they want change with stability.

There are questions in the minds of many about what this means in terms of the future of the government and the policies it will pursue.

That is why I am glad to take this opportunity to clarify the situation.

No matter what happens when the Legislature resumes June 4, one thing is clear - there will be no coalition government.

David Peterson and the rest of our caucus are Liberals - not products of a coalition. If we are called on to form a government, it will be headed by a Liberal premier, and include only Liberal cabinet ministers. In that respect it is similar to Liberal federal governments under former prime minister Lester Pearson, that had working relationships with third parties in order to govern in minority situations.

A government headed by David Peterson would also be a government with clear goals - getting the process of legislation moving again and fulfilling the people's desire for change while providing the stability that is essential to effective government.

That is why agreement on several principles was necessary to give life to the goals expressed by 63 per cent of the voters.

The agreement with the NDP - while far from exhaustive in terms of the work of government - will go a long way toward lifting the heavy weight of uncertainty usually associated with minority rule.

And the fact the agreement was put on paper and released to the public gives a strong signal about the kind of government we would provide. As the party that placed first in popular vote, we bear a special mandate to meet the desire for openness in government. We have made one thing crystal clear: A Liberal government would base its actions on open agendas, not hidden agendas.

Further, a Liberal government would get on with the process of governing, without fixing both eyes on an election.

Ontario can use two years without the threat of an election. It is time for the Ontario government to get back to work - in an atmosphere of stability. After two years of inaction, there is a need for two years of action.

While it was important to define areas of common ground with the third party, it was equally important to avoid the temptation to map out a detailed blueprint for government. Such a blueprint would have been unrealistic and contrary to the goal of sound government.

Wetlands are important

fantastic variety of both plant and animal. Over half of our 425 bird species utilize wetlands heavily. Almost all of our fish and amphibians depend upon them directly or indirectly. And perhaps half of our 2,500 plant species grow in them.

But wetlands play an important role to people, too. They act as fantastic sponges, sopping up otherwise-destructive floods, and gently releasing water during drought periods - sustaining flows needed for urban and agricultural areas alike. They recharge groundwater and provide the base for both recreation and commercial operations. They trap and "sink" metals and other pollutants. They even add zest to the landscape mosaic so important to tourism.

It's encouraging to see growing recognition for these areas, since over the past 200 years, we've erased 3/4 of our wetlands and with them, all of those consequent values. With growing efforts by organizations, government - and especially by private landowners - these areas are beginning to receive the stewardship that they so richly deserve.

In celebration of environment week, why not visit a wetland this week? Discover the wealth and variety of life which they support. And contemplate those spokes that extend into the countryside.

gram to make it simpler, fairer and more effective in helping individuals and the economy adjust to rapid changes in labour conditions.

The budget stresses that economic renewal depends heavily on the dynamism that we believe exists in individual Canadians and in the business community. Individually and collectively, Canadians can achieve the economic progress we all want. The measures in the budget, coupled with the action the government has already taken in the past few months, are designed to reach this goal. They give Canadians an opportunity to achieve success and they provide for a sound and growing economic future.

If you have any questions regarding particular points in the May 23rd budget, the government has established a toll free Hotline number which you can call to obtain further information. This number is 1-800-267-0470.

Evidence of tornado's fury falls to earth

Peter Walker displays the torn scrap from a mortgage document believed to have been transported by Friday's high winds from Barrie to his home, north of Minden.

A torn and crumpled sheet of paper found on a farm near Minden bears testimony to the awesome power of the tornadoes that left a path of death and destruction through southern Ontario on Friday.

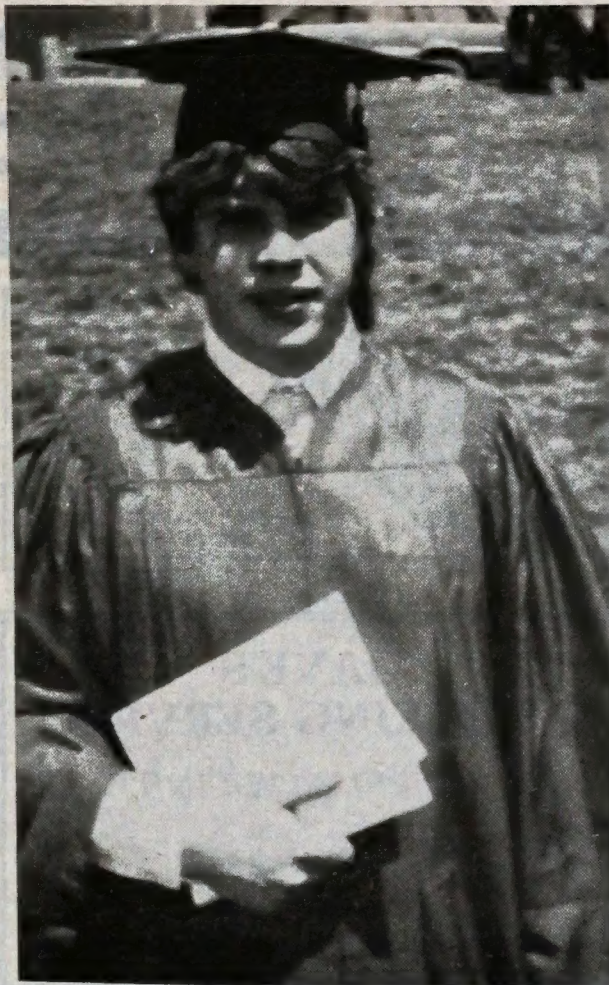

The sheet of paper was found on Ross Walker's farm on Sunday by his son Peter. The farm is situated on Scotch Line Road West just north of Minden.

The torn sheet was the front page of a mortgage agreement for the home of Merle and Margaret Bodenham of Barrie. The home was one of several hundred buildings destroyed by tornadoes in the City of Barrie alone.

Barrie was among half a dozen communities that were struck by the storm and is about 65 miles southwest of Minden.

Ross Walker also reports that he found a section of aluminum siding measuring 16 inches long, a chunk of aluminum soffit and several envelopes on the farm and said he believes the debris must also have been carried from the scene of the disaster by strong winds.

Paul Northey formerly of Minden and a graduate of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, graduated with a B.A. in Business Administration May 19 from Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. Paul plans to settle in the United States after his marriage to Melissa Beck, a fellow graduate.

4 in a row for Hustlers

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers made it four wins in a row as they picked up 2 more wins in the last week.

On Wednesday night at home, they faced the previously unbeaten Lindsay Kent Tavern. The visitors jumped into an early lead as they scored 4 runs in the second inning on two singles and two home runs by Lucas and Johnston.

It looked for a minute that the Hustlers were in for their first loss of the season, but in the last of the second inning they bounced back with three runs of their own on three singles and a double.

In the third inning the locals took the lead on a single by Colin Newell and (Yes!, the Rainmaker was back) Dave Hartwick smashed another towering home run. This proved to be the winning margin as from that point on to the seventh inning, it was three up three down for both sides.

Final score was Hustlers 5 Kent Tavern 4. Jack Snell was the winning pitcher raising his record to 3-0.

On Sunday the Rockcliffe boys travelled to Lindsay to take on Lindsay Town Rental. This game was a make-up from the previous Sunday.

The Hustlers again started slowly and the hometown Rental jumped into a first inning three run lead on a single, a walk and a home run by Gus Scott.

It wasn't until the third inning that the Hustlers got on track with a single by Rick Hartwick, a triple by Colin Newell and another single by Barry Hammond to make the score 3-2.

In the fourth inning, Dave Hartwick smashed his third homer in as many games to tie the score.

The fifth inning proved to be the big one for the Hustlers as they scored 4 more runs to take a commanding 7-3 lead.

Rental got one more run in the sixth inning on a homer by Knowles, but were shot down from there on by Big guns at the bat were Rick Hartwick (single and double), Dave Hartwick (single and homer), Colin Newell (triple and single) and Barry Hammond with two singles.

This Wednesday, June 5, the Hustlers will take on Woodville at home at 8:00 p.m. and will travel to Lindsay on Sunday night for a big double header against Lindsay York Tavern and Lindsay Kent Tavern at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Drivers compete in 10th Black Bear rally

The automobile rally that took place north of Minden on Saturday was a combination road race, reunion, anniversary and thrill of a lifetime, all rolled into one.

The competition marked the tenth anniversary of the Black Bear Rally which began in Huntsville in 1976 then was moved to the Minden area several years later.

Organized by the Maple Leaf Rally Club, the event attracted eighteen entrants from southern and central Ontario.

The arrival of the Nissan Canada Rally Team added an extra element of excitement to the day. The team, including two time Canadian Rally Champion, Randy Black, was reunited especially for the rally. The team captured the Canadian championship in 1983 but has not competed since. They came out of retirement on the request of the producers of the CTV television program Thrill of A Lifetime. (See story elsewhere in this edition.)

The teams, eighteen drivers (16 men and 2 women), their navigators and the service crews, gathered at Minden Arena Saturday morning to prepare the cars.

The competitors were racing in three classes. Production "A" cars with engine displacement up to 1600 c.c. Production "B" cars with displacement over 1600 c.c. and Open Class cars.

The Production Class cars feature stock engines but the teams are allowed to beef up the suspension to withstand the high speeds over rough backroads.

The Open Class cars are allowed modifications to the engines, bodies and drive trains to produce cars that are built like trucks, but are capable of high speed performance.

As well as improvements made to power and handling, the cars are built with safety in mind.

Drivers and navigators are strapped in with five point harnesses inside roll cages and the stock gasoline tanks are replaced with safety fuel cells.

The teams carry fire extinguishers, safety triangles in case of an accident, spare parts, tools and first aid kits. Following the safety inspections, the teams line up inside the arena for the beginning of the rally.

Setting out at one minute intervals, the cars drove north on the Bobcaygeon Road along Highway 118 to the Clear Lake Road then north to the first checkpoint and the beginning of the first of seven special stages over Ministry of Natural Resources Forest Access roads that were closed to the public for the duration of the rally. While travelling on public roads, the cars are required to maintain the legal speed limit, but once they enter the special stages, they are in a race against the clock. Whoever covers the stages in the least amount of time, is declared the winner.

Five of the special stages were in Oakley and Hindon townships. Stages 4 and 5 took place on Sherbourne Forest access road north of the Leslie Frost Centre and proved to be the favourite spot for spectators.

A series of three jumps gave the rally enthusiasts an opportunity to watch the cars become airborne after negotiating a series of hairpin turns. Before the first car had arrived, a crowd of 30 spectators had gathered along the side of the gravel road.

One young enthusiast, a former driver who competed in three Black Bear rallies, commented that the sport has undergone some major changes in the past five years as many of the veteran drivers have retired. He noted, however, that there is a new crop of young drivers becoming involved but added that the sport will probably never be as popular in Canada as it is in Europe.

He said that some rallies attract over a quarter of a million spectators and that in Finland, while half the country is attending a rally, the other half is watching the event at home on television.

Another spectator paused between swats at the insects (he nicknamed the event the Black Fly Rally) to say that unlike many automobile sports, rallies remain affordable to most people particularly if a group of people get together to purchase, prepare and race a car.

The conversations soon ceased when someone yelled "Here comes Randy." Seconds later, the sound of a high performance engine broke through the trees, then the white Nissan 200SX driven by Randy Black, soared over the top of a knoll, roared down the hill over a second small hill, up the incline, over the final 'Yump' and slewed sideways into a sharp corner at the end of a straightaway and disappeared from view.

A quick measurement showed that the car had travelled over thirty feet from the top of the first hill before touching down. None of the other cars was able to match the distance that afternoon, proof of Randy's skill and the power of the car. Someone commented that Randy is one of the smoothest drivers in the business. He never makes mistakes and is always in control, even when he isn't!

One by one, the cars passed by, accompanied by comments from the crowd on the skill of the drivers or the conditions of the cars.

After a delay of about 40 minutes, the cars retraced the route to Highway 35.

After the last car had passed, the spectators walked out to the highway and many returned to Glenroy Lodge to watch the finish of the rally. As the cars returned and registered at the final checkpoint, one of the rally directors, Terry Epp, echoed some of the earlier comments about the state of the sport.

He noted that there has been a decline in the sport in recent years and that some important sponsors have he could foresee more sponsorship in the future.

"It is still very much a sport and a hobby," he said, concluding, "Rallies are basically fun events that attract amateurs."

When the final car had arrived, Terry announced that of the eighteen starters, fifteen cars had finished the rally. Three cars had lost too much time after being stuck in soft ditches and two cars had dropped out because of mechanical problems. While waiting for the official results, the teams compared notes on the rally, relaxed and later watched some of the action on a television monitor, courtesy of the CTV crew.

It came as no surprise that Randy Black of Oakville and his novice navigator Paul Mitchell of Scarborough, placed first with a time of 53 minutes, 56 seconds over the 75 km course. Second overall was John Lutzenberger and Mark Kreller of Kitchener in 55 minutes, 41 seconds.

This was the first rally that the team from Kitchener had entered. The team was driving a Nissan 510 that was previously raced by a factory team.

David Wells of Pickering and Rod MacDonald of Grimsby placed third in a Dodge Colt with a time of 56 minutes, 55 seconds.

Wilberforce wins

On Monday the 27th, Wilberforce played in Haliburton against the Juniors coming away the winners by a score of 15 to 4. Miriam Smith added a home run to her strong hitting record.

The next night the Minden Dixie Lee Seniors defeated the Haliburton Seniors 13 - 9. This was a well fought contest with Gail Teasdale - a transplanted West Guilford player - playing a strong first base and Wendy Gough of the Minden Seniors having a strong night at the plate. In Gooderham that night the Haliburton Seniors defeated Gooderham with Pam Iles blasting out a grand slam homer.

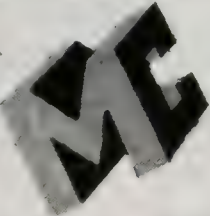

On Wednesday night the Haliburton Seniors defeated the Minden Juniors in what turned into a very late - late scheduled game. Marlene Nimigon helped the winning side with some strong batting. In Wilberforce that night the Minden Dixie Lee Seniors squeaked out a win, defeating Wilberforce 13 to 12. A very strong last inning by Wilberforce brought an exciting finish to the game.

The next night Wilberforce again played a very close game. Gooderham came away the winners this time with strong competition from the home team.

The standings at the weekend were: Haliburton Juniors, Minden Seniors and Haliburton Seniors tied in first place; Wilberforce and Gooderham in second place and the Minden Juniors (who have been plagued by bad weather and have two rained out games) in third place.

Players pursue an errant ball after the Haliburton Dixie Lee Club failed to score on an indirect penalty shot in a game played against Huntsville on Sunday. The visiting team defeated Haliburton 2-0 to hand the club their second loss of the season.

Dixie Lee loses second game

The Dixie Lee Soccer Club suffered their second loss in a row going down to a 2-0 defeat at the hands of Huntsville on Sunday in Haliburton.

The pair of losses at home came after the team got off to their best start ever, winning their first two games on the road including one win against Gravenhurst, last year's league champions.

In the first half of the game on Sunday, the home team had the advantage of a strong wind and came close on a number of scoring attempts, but were unable to finish off the plays.

In the second half Huntsville had the wind at their backs and dominated the play scoring twice.

The first goal came after a corner kick when a Huntsville forward scored through a tangle of players in front of the Haliburton net.

The second point came on a neat passing play that eluded netminder Andy Shapiera who played his usual strong game, making a number of excellent diving saves.

Team spokesman Jim Milne said that Dixie Lee team will have to develop a better short passing game. The style that proved so successful in the team's two victories at the start of the season, does not work well when playing against the wind.

He explained that the team would kick the ball deep into the opposition zone and send the two speedy forwards, Mike Hatkoski and Falk Fluegel ahead to try to beat the defence, but with a strong wind to contend with, the strategy was not as effective.

The Dixie Lee team will be practicing at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School soccer pitch on Thursday at 7 p.m. in preparation for their next game in Parry Sound on Sunday.

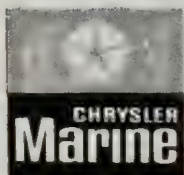

The loss last Sunday gives the team four points for the season one point behind Huntsville.

A small decline of the Haliburton Lakes resulted in an average 98.4% remaining on May 27. The weekend rain was less in the Haliburton area than further south in the Kawarthas, where some surplus was accumulated. Increases to the Otonabee flow were made to prevent high water conditions.

Gull River flow over the past week has averaged 22.6 cubic metres per second compared to the May normal of 23.3. Burnt River flow was averaging 16.3 cubic metres per second this week, whereas its normal May flow averages 28.7 cubic metres per second.

Drawing of water for evaporation replacement should not be required before the normal date of about June 15, as long as rainfall continues to occur as in the past two or three weeks.

New specialist joins Ag office

Bill Baxter is the new Farm Management Specialist for Victoria and Haliburton Counties, joining the extension staff at the Lindsay Agricultural Office during the past week.

Bill Baxter graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College in 1962, specializing in Animal Science. He worked with the Ministry of Agriculture and Food after graduation as a Livestock Specialist and then as Associate Agricultural Representative in Oxford County. For seventeen years he was a partner in a large farming enterprise in Elgin County, with a 200 sow farrow-to-finish operation and several hundred acres of cash crop.

During the past year, Bill has been the Red Meat Advisor with the Ministry in south western Ontario working from the London and Woodstock offices.

We are pleased to have Bill Baxter join the extension team in Lindsay. We know his experience and training will be of real benefit in working with farmers in our Counties.

Agricrew serve farmers

After seven very successful years, the Agricrew Program is well into its eighth season in Victoria and Haliburton Counties, and the Region of Durham West. The Program has expanded through the years and will employ 368 youths province-wide this summer. This year Agricrew will be in operation in conjunction with the Canada Farm Labour Pool.

Two crews of four are available from June 24 to August 24 for farmers to hire, at a cost of $90 a day per crew. Presently the two crews have been spoken for 20 days out of a possible 96 days (43 days per crew). To ensure a crew is available when needed, call today and book early.

For your convenience, Lisa Thompson, the Program Co-ordinator, can now be contacted at the Cannington Farm Labour Pool Office at 432-3101 or Toll Free 1-800-263-3825, and also at the Lindsay Agricultural Office, at 324-6125 or Zenith 97920.

Potatoes are popular garden vegetables

Potatoes in Ontario are an economical buy in the store.

"There's no real need to grow your own potatoes but some 'green thumbs' have a primeval urge to grow a few hills of potatoes in their own garden; true sufferers get relief only from planting," says Sam Squire, crop advisor (potatoes) for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's plant industry branch, Alliston, Ontario.

He suggests growing two excellent Canadian varieties, Yukon Gold and Shepody.

Information on sources of seed is available by writing to "Potato", Box 370, Alliston, Ontario L0M 1A0.

Prepare your potato row by roto-tilling to the depth of the tines.

For each ten paces of row length, sprinkle evenly a 455 ml (16 oz) can of 7-7-7 commercial fertilizer and work it in once with the tiller.

Open a trench the depth of your hoe and place whole tubers the length of your shoe apart in the row.

Cover the tubers shallowly by dragging your heels along each side of the trench and put a stake with the variety name at each end of the row. Keep the potato rows about a pace apart.

While the potato tops are small, loosen the soil between the rows and pull up soil around the plants to hill them.

Control weeds by hoeing or mulch with grass clippings. Use insecticide and fungicide dusts as required to control insects and blight.

If possible, thoroughly water the potatoes once a week.

After bloom, the new set tubers will begin to size.

When you notice tiny cracks forming on the top of the hill, reach into the hill from the side and see if you can feel the new tubers.

One or two egg size tubers can be stolen from a hill and boiled up for your enjoyment, without disturbing the potato tops.

Later in the fall when the vines mature, dig up any remaining potatoes and store them in a dark, cool place. A cellar is ideal.

Bake Yukon Gold or Shepody potatoes at 232 degrees Celsius (450 degrees Fahrenheit) without foil just until they are cooked through and the skins are crisp.

Lodge owner dies

A man is dead following what is believed to have been a heart attack experienced while repairing a boat at Kingscote Lake in Bruton Township.

According to police, the man was discovered by two fishermen who were returning to shore. They located the man slumped over the transom of a boat with the upper portion of his body in the water.

Dead is 55 year old Jock Lloyd Wiperman of Bracebridge, the owner of Kingscote Lake Lodge. It is believed that he was working on an outboard motor when he experienced a heart attack and slumped into the water.

An autopsy confirmed the cause of death.

The incident occurred at approximately 9 p.m. May 24.

Coroner Dr. Harry Good attended at the scene. The investigating officer is Constable Barry Connelly.

No inquest has been scheduled.

Thefts

Two cars, parked at the Red Pine Lake dam in Havelock Township, were broken into during the night of May 25-26. Taken from the vehicles was stereo equipment valued at $1150. Included in the haul was a tape player, speakers and cassettes.

The investigating officer was Constable Paul Shaughnessy.

Horticultural Society adds to natural beauty

Irene Moore, Elizabeth Carrell and Noel Leigh brighten the banks of the Gull River as they transplant flowers into one of the raised beds. Amos Brubacher received a hand from Tom Hurta as they raise a flower basket into place on the Main Street. Both pictures were taken in June 1979.

Birth Announcement To Minden and District

On (or about) November 1, 1977

A husky 200 member new Horticultural Society.

Proud Mother: (President) Elizabeth Carrell.

Mid-wife: (Secretary - treasurer) Irene Moore.

Loving Grandparents: District Four.

In lieu of booties please send programme notes.

We have travelled a long way in our short seven years. Some of our projects have been hanging baskets on Main Street, planting flower gardens on the banks of the Gull River, on Minden's Main Street, West Guilford Community Centre, Stanhope Municipal offices, etc.

Blue spruce trees were planted at the new Library Cultural Centre and another important event was the formation of a Junior Society under the guidance of Jean and Jeunne Lacey who encouraged the youngsters in vegetable gardening, etc.

We have held annual Flower Shows, plant sales, entered floats in the Rotary Parade, and Haliburton County Fair. All these events don't "just happen". Behind this society is a core of dedicated volunteers. People are divided into 3 groups: -

1. Those who make things happen.
2. Those who watch things happen.
3. Those who wonder what happened.

Which one are you?

For over a hundred years travellers to our area have marvelled at its natural beauty. The Chamber of Commerce used to use the motto, "Nature at its rugged best". To help others appreciate and preserve this natural beauty should be important to all of us.

In 1977 a group of citizens decided to circulate a petition to find out if there would be enough support to organize a Minden and District Horticultural Society. One hundred and forty-six residents signed.

The organizational meeting was held October 5th, 1977. Richard Parisotto, clerk of the townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden, was the chairman. The Board of Directors was as follows: President: Elizabeth Carrell; First Vice President: George Tipton; Second Vice President: Amos Brubacher. Directors elected were: Anne Hurta, Mabel Hewitt, Marg Lonsberry; Edna Tipton, Cliff Burke, Nerina Burke, Gwen Cox, Brian Sisson, Irene Moore, Pat Campbell. The secretary - treasurer was Irene Moore.

Letters of congratulations were received from Clarence Tink, District 4 Director, Nepean, Collingwood and Bobcaygeon Horticultural Societies. The following notice appeared in the District 4 Newsletter.

Irene and Spike Moxam and son Brent joined the Northey family in Independence, Missouri last weekend to attend the wedding of Paul Northey and Melissa Beck on Saturday, June 1. The happy couple will be visiting Minden shortly.

Last Tuesday night was another fun night at the Minden Community Centre with Rotary Bingo. The snowball of $148 was not won and will be larger at the next bingo night. Jean McKelvey winning the 'Las Vegas' hat won some tickets. The door prize of a lovely fuschia plant went to Elva Paisley. Winners of $100 on Nevada tickets were Phil Sawyer and Helen Lee. The final game for a full card was won by Susan Robinson who received $56 for her efforts. The next Rotary bingo will be June 11 which sees the start of the weekly sessions for the summer.

Visitors with Phil and Florence Robinson of Minden recently were Eileen and Paul Cockburn and Arlene and Leonard Coates of Woodville who were spending the weekend at the Voycey cottage at Redstone.

Minden United Church school held their annual picnic at Twelve Mile Lake last Sunday afternoon. Everyone enjoyed the day of fun and fellowship and the prize for the oldest couple in attendance went to Florence and Phil Robinson.

All family and friends wish to welcome Mrs. Pat McMurter, formerly of Scarborough, as a Minden resident.

Visiting Cliff and Jean Lacey this weekend were Cliff's sister Doris and her husband Richard Hubbard from Toronto. Also visiting were William Lacey and his friend Danny Jackson from Shelburne.

Club 35 held their weekly card party Monday evening and the prizewinners for that evening were: Most lone hands - Al Bruton, high lady - Mildred Mitchell and high man - Gerry Mitchell. The door prize was awarded to Mabel Trodd while other winners for the evening were Newton Hackney, Olive Daniels and Wally Harper. (Guess they don't let Alex Stevenson play cards anymore!)

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Annie Walker is presently a patient in Minden hospital. We hope she will soon be well enough to come home to be with her family and friends.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Mrs. Minnie Ackerblade who passed away in her 98th year recently.

The following poem was written by Yvonne Guida and is very appropos after last Friday evening's terrible storms in Ontario.

To the Victims

Nature can be a beautiful but devastating thing
At some particular time and place
It can do an about-face
And turn man and all he holds dear
Into rubble in seconds.
The delicious day that shines
Gives way as dark clouds gather
And one by one
Cover up the sun
The ominous sounds of thunder are heard
By every man and beast and bird
They run for cover
As the first drops begin to patter
In the grass.
The sky turns inky black, forked with lightning
And suddenly there is a roar
Something not heard before
And where a house or car stood
They are now reduced to wood or shards of tin
To show where they have been
But are no more.
The only sense that one can make
Out of the horrible debris left
When nature went mad - for seconds
Is the determination that people possess
No matter whether in storm, flood or war,
They help each other, hiding their grief
To help some other poor soul
Who needs relief
From the devastation.
Their determination
To build again
To bring things back, as they have been
Their courage in the face of disaster
Their kindness and goodness glows
And brightens up the night
As they all work to end the blight
That has befallen them.

Yvonne

At the Women's Institute Executive meeting last Friday at the Library-Cultural Centre, programs were planned for the coming year and these will be ready for the June meeting. Mrs. L. Cox was elected to convener of Citizenship and World Affairs. Plans were made to attend the Powles Corner Branch anniversary party June 15. Also mentioned was that all members bring their own table setting to the picnic meeting at the United Church hall on June 19 at noon.

Winners at last Thursday afternoon's Museum card party at the Library-Cultural Centre were, lone hands (on a cut) Dorothy Reaman, others - Cora Hewitt, Jack Weekes and Bob Mitchell.

Movies for children will be held again this Friday evening, June 7 from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. at the Library-Cultural Centre. Admission is free.

Minden Agricultural Society meeting will be held June 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Exhibit Building at Minden Fairgrounds.

Norma Davies, her daughter Tara and various friends and relatives attended the wedding of Norma's elder son Steven to Debbie Graham last Saturday in Bondhead United Church. A reception was held for the newlyweds in Bradford following the beautiful ceremony and the couple will reside in Bradford on their return from a Caribbean honeymoon. Members of the Minden contingent to the wedding included the groom's grandmothers, Mrs. Bea Taylor and Mrs. Mary Bowins, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Taylor and Kirk Taylor.

Dear readers: Another week has gone by since I've penned a line to you. So I will get busy and see what I can do. So many residents have gone on holidays, some just coming back. We have given up trying to keep track.

A nice service in the chapel Sunday night. Quite a number there. Harold Thompson read the lesson, also led in prayer. Ruth played the music for the good old songs. We had Mr. and Mrs. Albert Price as visitors, we are glad they came along. Then Rev. Burgess, bless his heart, always has a very impressive message to impart.

Monday morning down at fun and fitness, Millie Wood won the game we played, for all to witness.

Congratulations to Olive Hamilton, for you see, she had a new granddaughter recently.

We welcome Lola Prentice back from a week's holiday. We miss the residents when they are away. Tuesday morning Captain Linda Bulmer of the Salvation Army, came down to us this lovely May day. Brought us a real impressive message. Thank you for coming we would like to say, and Fred Ballard who came the music to play.

Tuesday afternoon, Doris showed us three interesting movies, for our inspection. "Wings to Hawaii", "Wet-back Hound" and "Rideau Reflections".

Congratulations and best wishes we would like to say to Della Curry who had a birthday this twenty-third day of May.

Fred Ballard came to entertain us Tuesday night, Fred is a good organ player, and does the job just right. Although he is crippled up in his knees, he surely knows how to finger the organ keys.

Mary Oliver who is secretary of the Residents Council, sent a thank you to Grace Coburn, President of the Auxiliary, thanking them for all they have done for us during the past. Purchasing lovely card tables and sturdy lawn chairs, that should really last. A real nice thing for you to do.

chasing lovely card tables and sturdy lawn chairs, that should really last. A real nice thing for you to do.

Ruby Lewis spent a holiday with her daughter, up West Guilford way. Doris and Linda, our activities staff are happy, in fact they are filled with joy. They have just become Aunts again of a Darling Baby Boy.

Ada Alcorn's sister Alice and husband from Los Angeles, are back for a month's holiday on the shores of Twelve Mile Lake. We hope they have a real nice time. They are coming tomorrow to stay with Ada and dine.

The A.C.W. ladies from Wilberforce came down to us the thirtieth May day and brought a fine gentleman with them, who helped out in many ways. They brought and served a dainty lunch, good variety on display. Then Elsie played some good piano tunes, Ray Jenkins came along to help her out. Their music filled the room. Thankyou for coming, please come back real soon.

We welcome Clara Coulter back again from a holiday. She said she had a real nice time while she was away. We thank the bingo callers, who came to call bingo Thursday night. Lewis and Jean Stevens, some players said they did alright, others just broke even.

Well readers, since this is the last day of May, I will have to say goodbye, and hope to talk to you again soon, in the lovely month of June.

Solution needed for porcupine pests

Police are looking for suggestions on how to discourage porcupines from gnawing at brake lines on vehicles.

During the past few weeks the OPP in Minden has received at least five reports of vehicles being without brakes because the brake fluid has drained away, the result of holes in the lines caused by the nocturnal animals.

The police point out that a driver generally doesn't realize the brakes are not functioning properly until the vehicle is in motion. "The discovery has resulted in a few scary moments, but no serious accidents have resulted," the police report said.

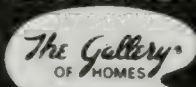

Several suggestions which have surfaced to date include the placing of a radio under the car at nights to discourage the animals, or protecting the vulnerable hoses with chicken wire.

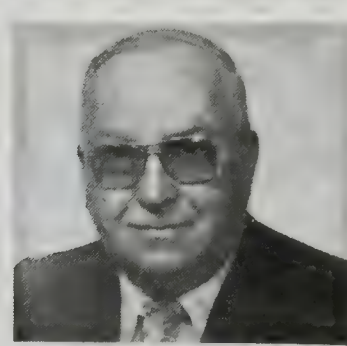

The police say the incidents have been reported from various parts of the county. They are looking for possible solutions to discourage the porcupines from disabling the brake system. Anyone with a suggestion is asked to contact Constable Gary Chapman at the Minden detachment of the OPP, 286-1431.

IN MEMORIAM

BERGMAN: In loving memory of John, who died June 7, 1975.

There's one thing I feel thankful for,
Since I am last to go,
The heart that loved me ever
Will not such sorrow know.

Had we never loved sae kindly
Had we never loved sae blindly
Never met, nor never parted,
We had ne'er been broken-hearted.

Pat

VOICEY: In loving memory of my dear husband Joe who passed away June 10, 1982.

Gone are the days we used to share
But in my heart you are always there
Sweet are the memories that never fade
I love you more than tongue can tell.
Our family cares for me well
And neighbours and friends are so good
So rest in peace, my darling
Till we meet again.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by wife Alice

VOICEY: In loving memory of Joseph Henry (Joe), a dear loving father, grandfather, who left us suddenly on June 10, 1982.

As time unfolds another year
Memories keep you ever near Silent thoughts of times together
Hold memories that will last forever.

Sadly missed by all the family.
